George finds a mysterious box outside his thrift shoppe one morning. Inside are four items, a vibrator, jeans, a blouse, and high heels. The items seem to change with the customers that enter the store as if they are meant for certain people. When the items get into the possession of the desired parties they seem to change in certain ways with some people undergoing a body swap or gender transformation through magical means. But who is behind this and what happens to the people who body swap? This 17,000 word novelette begins the tale of George Backles and G. B. Thrift Shoppe full of body swapping and descriptions of oral and anal sex as George tries to figure out this erotic mystery. As George walked through the store sipping on his coffee he noticed the box from this morning sitting on the floor. He stared at the box with an odd fascination. It was cold outside last night and the wind blew snow around the town square yet the box was completely dry. That was odd thought George because when he pushed it inside with his foot there was a small layer of snow covering it. The puddles on the floor from when he entered had not dried up so the box should have been wet at the very least. He took off his scarf and put his coffee down on the counter. When he walked over to the box the area surrounding the box seemed to be a bit warmer than its surroundings. The box was light and easy to lift. He carried it over to his glass counter where he set it down and looked for a knife to cut open the top. George deftly cut alongside the side and opened it up spotting some newspaper crumpled on the top. It was yesterdays paper and he tossed it to the side as his hands grew warm. This story takes place in the Universe of Erotic and Genderbending Superheroes
